Paraguay vs
Land Sale!

Own a piece of the largest desert in Australia: the Great Victoria Desert, which spans South Australia and Western Australia.

Guaranteed never to flood.

Just a helicopter flight to shops, schools and restaurants.

Experience warm days and cool desert nights.

Find solitude, peace and tranquillity.

POTENTIAL PLUS! REDEVELOP AS A MINE.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to invest in a pristine wilderness.

Get in now or miss out forever!

Contact Burke and Wills Realty for your last chance to buy—a perfect portion of paradise.

Parody is when a serious text is imitated but changed in a way to make fun of it. To fully understand a parody, the reader needs to be familiar with the type of text that is being imitated.

1. Read Land Sale! It is a parody of a real estate advertisement. Underline words and phrases that would typically be found in a real estate advertisement.

2. What words and phrases in the ad let the reader know that Land Sale! is not serious?

3. Use a thesaurus. Find a less appealing synonym for each positive description used in Land Sale!
   - pristine ____________________________ solitude ____________________________
   - warm ____________________________ cool ____________________________
   - wilderness ____________________________ invest ____________________________

4. Use the synonyms you found for question 3 to rewrite this section of the advertisement.
   Experience ____________________________ days and ____________________________ desert nights.
   Find ____________________________, peace and tranquillity.
   POTENTIAL PLUS! REDEVELOP AS A MINE.
   This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to ____________________________ in a ____________________________.

What difference do the less positive synonyms make to the meaning?
Collocation is the term used for words that are likely to be used together.
light switch yours sincerely helping hand

Compound nouns are nouns made by combining two or more words. Compound nouns are collocations.
football power point post office walkie-talkie son-in-law footpath

5 Rearrange or replace the underlined words to show correct collocation.
Rosa is talking in the phone.
The prisoner is accused with stealing.
Don't make fun with me.
I made an accident.
It was written in white and black.
Let's toss a party.
I give over because the question is too stiff.

6 Write a set of word groups that a travel agent would use together regularly.

Purposely misusing collocation can help parody work.
Just a helicopter ride to local schools and shops.
In real estate, being close to things that people need is an advantage. We might expect a real estate ad to refer to something being Just a 5 min walk to local schools and shops.

7 Distort five of the word groups you collected for question 6 to create a parody about travel.

8 Write a list of compound nouns. Collect three of each type.
Hyphenated walkie-talkie
Solid football
Written with a space power point

Try it yourself!
Create your own parody of a real estate advertisement. Use language typically found in real estate ads and descriptive words and phrases of your own. You might persuade people to buy land at the bottom of the sea, on a remote island, on top of a city skyscraper, or any other place.
